

Notes for Authors

PhD. Danuta Borecka-Biernat, Associate Professor at the University of Wrocław is the Head of Psychology of Education Unit at the Institute of Psychology, University of Wrocław. Since 2010 she has been acting as an expert of the State Accreditation Committee of the Department of Social and Legal Major of Studies and since 2012 she has been the editor of the series Psychological Works issued by the University of Wrocław. Her scientific and research interests revolve around the issues of identification of family and personality determinants of behaviour disorders in young people in a situation of social exposure and the strategies used by young people to cope with difficulties in social situations. She is currently dealing with the issues of social conflict and the ways young people cope with conflict situations in different educational environments. She is an author of 98 scientific publications, including 8 books. In the years 2009–2011 she participated in an EU ESF Project on Development and provision of a coherent package of diagnostic tools and teaching materials to support the process of recognition of professional aptitude of students (Agreement UDA-POKL.03.04.03-00-031/08-00) developing a questionnaire to assess strategies to cope with life problems and tasks for gymnasium schools. As part of the Statutory Research Project since 2009 she has been implementing her own subject Adolescents' conflicts with the environment. Psychological and sociological factors.

✉ Contact: d.borecka-biernat@psychologia.uni.wroc.pl

Professor PhDr. Jana Levická, PhD. works in the Department of Social Work at Trnava University in Trnava. Her scientific-pedagogical endeavour focuses on theory and methodology of social work and social security from the human rights perspective. Her research interests focus on the area of social work with families and social services in the context of social work theories and methods. She is an author and co-author of several important monographs and academic works. She cooperates with institutions providing social services, is a member of several editorial boards of scientific magazines, contributes to the formation of laws in the social work area and also works in the administrative advisory bodies on both local and national level. Currently, she is also contributing invaluable insight into the project 2.3 CZ.1.07/2.3.00/20.0209 Development and Support of Multidisciplinary Scientific and Research Team for the Study of Contemporary Family at the University of Hradec Králové.

✉ Contact: j.levicka@centrum.sk

JUDr. Miroslav Mitlöhner, PhD. is the director of the Institute of Social Work at the University of Hradec Kralove (Czech Republic). He creatively applies his longtime experience in criminal law into social work practice, particularly into socio-legal protection of children and youth. His professional, scientific and educational interests focus mainly on issues of abused and exploited children, on juvenile delinquency, young people and other areas where law intersperses social work.

✉ Contact: Miroslav.Mitlohner@seznam.cz

Ph.D. Malgorzata Prokosz, Ph.D. assistant professor at the Department of Education in the Wrocław University, in the Social Pedagogy Research Institute. She is pedagogy coordinator specialising in caretaking therapy. Interested in upbringing and education of the children and youth with disorders in the urban environment, concerning widely understood protective and social pedagogy. Contributor/co-worker of many care and educational institutions in the city of Wrocław and Lower Silesian province (educator and pedagogue, consultant for families). Author of 62 scientific publications, including 6 books about care taking, education and work with children and youth. Member of the Association for Children, Youth and Families and the Polish Society of Education. Co-participating in three EU projects ESF: 2007/08 Improving the quality of teaching in relation to labor market needs (Project No. WZP. 322-IW-17A/2007), 2011/12 New offer educational (Project No. 716/F/IPS/11/7033) and Friendly and safe school. Practical preparation for the tasks of education and care: An effective system of teacher education and training (Project No. UDA-POKL 03.03.02-00-077/10-00).

✉ Contact: mprokosz@wp.pl

Mgr. Zuzana Truhlářová, PhD. is a graduate of the Husite Theological Faculty at the Charles University in Prague. She earned her doctoral degree at the Pedagogical faculty of Palacký University in Olomouc and currently works in the Institute of Social Work at the University of Hradec Králové as a Deputy Director. At the centre of her pedagogical and scientific attention is the issue of elderly population, group social work methodology and other research projects. She contributed to many domestic and international scientific projects. Currently, she is the head of the research group in the project 2.3 CZ.1.07/2.3.00/20.0209 Development and Support of Multidisciplinary Scientific and Research Team for the Study of Contemporary Family at the University of Hradec Králové.

✉ Contact: zuzana.truhlarova@uhk.cz

Ph.D. Krzysztof Zajdel, Ph.D. assistant professor, senior lecturer in Karkonoska State College in Jelenia Góra, practitioner with a long-term work record as a lecturer, teacher, and headmaster. The field of his research interests include school and pupils, social pedagogy, educational psychology, didactics. Author of several publications in this regard. Ministerial expert at teacher's professional promoting, member of Polish Association of Creative Teachers, chairman of Association for Rural Areas Support. ESF co-participating in the project 2007/08 Improving the quality of teaching in relation to labor market needs (Project No. WZP. 322-IW-17A/2007).

✉ Contact: zajdelki@wp.pl

